YOUNG MURDERERS IN JOLIET AFTER NARROW ESCAPE

BIG CAR PLUNGES OFF ROAD AND GRAZES DEATH.

TO WORK MONDAY

Millionaire Youths Will Be Put at Labor in Prison Factory Shops.

JOLIET, Ill.—Richard Loeb will be assigned to work in the prison factory and Nathan Leopold in the machine factory, Warden Whitman said this morning.

After their first night in prison, spent in the "court solitary" where all prisoners must spend their first night, the Joliet prisoners, "Red" Loeb and "White" Leopold, dressed in light blue prison uniforms, numbers 9205 and 9206, faced the first day of their imprisonment for the murder of Robert Frank.

Having forfeited a life of ease in their palatial Chicago homes for the routine scheduled for all "hiffs," the prisoners will soon begin manual labor in one of the prison factories.

Today they were to attend the defense day exercises to be held at the prison, and Saturday morning they will have the privilege of attending the weekly motion picture show given for the entertainment of the prisoners.

Then, on Sunday they will have an opportunity to attend chapel services. In view of this outlined (Continued on page 14)

HEADS CLIPPED

New Life

JOLIET, Ill.—Nathan P. Leopold, Jr. and Richard Loeb today told the world goodbye with a snarl and started a life of prison labor. In what they would be their last interview with newspaper men, the players of young Robert Frank declared they had been told not to talk, and they were glad their contact with reporters was over, and smilingly backed out of the presence of the press.

Wearing the blue denim prison jacket and trousers and with heads closely cropped, the youths presented a little of the nutty appearance of the men in the Cook county jail, where they were brought before the newspaper men in the interview room of the prison, where prisoners may receive visitors.

Confronted With World Ends.
Warden John L. Whitman had just informed reporters that henceforth the boys would be in charge of the prison authorities and that their contact with the outside world had ended.

The boys smiled as they saw who their visitors were but vouchsafed no comment.

"Dick, Warden Whitman has just told us this is the last time we will see you," said Nathan, a reporter. "That's fine," Loeb responded, "that suits us exactly."

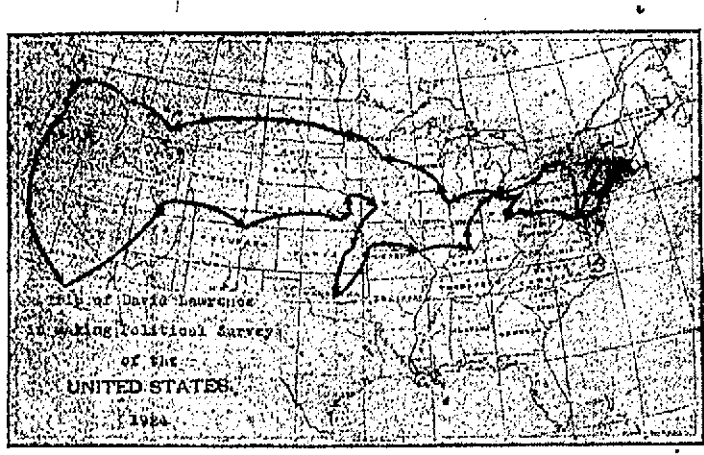

Instructed Not to Talk.
Questions of "how do you like it here?" "What do you think of Joliet?" "How did you enjoy breakfast?" and "Have you any farewell message to send outside" were all met by smiles and negative shakes of the head.

Finally, in desperation, a reporter, addressing Loeb, who was doing what talking was being done, said: "Dick, we only have five minutes to talk; can you say something?"

"We are sorry," replied Loeb, "but we have been instructed not to talk. We would be glad to talk if we could, but we can't."

SEVERSON WANTS TO HEAR FROM BLAINE
Sen. Severn, Wis., Senator Herman J. Severn, today advised today of a report that Governor Blaine had refused to accept his resignation from the free library board, said, "I have had no communication from Governor Blaine and have nothing to say about such time as I receive his communication." (See page 2)

Here's Where Lawrence Is Going on 9,000 Mile Trip

David Lawrence started today on a 9,000 mile trip to look over the political field, his dispatches will appear in the Janesville Gazette. Thursday and today there have been printed in the Janesville Daily Gazette the only authorized interviews with President Coolidge on many topics of vital interest. Lawrence is one of the leading men in public thought in Washington. His letters form only one of the many features which make the Gazette the most important newspaper published in a smaller city. For Saturday and Sunday Gazette, out tomorrow, there will be more and more interesting features and all the news you do not want to miss. It is in the paper you get the night before if that paper is the Janesville Daily Gazette.

President Coolidge is expected to visit the world as the spokesman of government who recently met in the assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva. Mr. Coolidge has no idea that the suggestion he made in his recent speech, namely, that he would convene a conference on armaments, will in any way conflict with the plan made at Geneva for a conference of powers. The Geneva institution is to appoint a commission to study the armament question and feel out the viewpoint of the powers with respect to a plan to be presented to them in an international conference. ## President Hopes to Aid World in Reducing Armies Chicago—Assistant District Attorney John Elliot Byrne will go before the federal grand jury here today to seek the indictment of William F. Fahy, postal inspector, as a leader of the $200,000 mail robbery.

At about the same time Attorney J. D. Reilly, Chicago, will be pleading with the Leavenworth parole board for the release of Edith Murphy, sent to the prison by the federal grand jury for her part in the $200,000 mail robbery.

Mr. Reilly announced last night that before leaving for Leavenworth, he would see the parole board from various witnesses of the full mail robbery, for which Murphy is still under indictment, although the federal grand jury has indicted her for her part in the $200,000 mail robbery by almost a year.

The old indictments thus far have prevented "Edith" from having his petition for parole entertained although he has been eligible for parole consideration for months.

The affidavits which he will present to the parole board purport to show that Fahy "fanned" the indictment in the full mail robbery, he is indicted in the full mail robbery, he is indicted in the full mail robbery, he is indicted in the full mail robbery.

PRESIDENT MAY SPEAK IN THE WEST
Washington—President Coolidge is expected by some of his advisers to accept a few of the many invitations he has recently received to speak in the middle west.

Among the scores of invitations which have been extended to the president by various organizations are included requests for him to speak in Chicago, St. Paul, and other cities further west. Mr. Coolidge also is understood to be giving careful consideration to the invitation to speak in Philadelphia on September 25.

LA FOLLETTE NOT TO ANSWER DAWES "FOR THE PRESENT"

Washington—Senator Robert M. La Follette, who declined comment, at least for the present, on the attack made on him by Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential nominee, in a speech delivered last night in Milwaukee, said today that he would not direct reply to General Dawes at any time during the campaign. He feels, he added, that the public, particularly in his home state of Wisconsin, is familiar with his record in public life and that it would be better to keep on the offensive during the campaign than to allow himself to be put on the defensive.

In discussing campaign plans with friends, Senator La Follette frequently has remarked that he prefers to submit his record to the people in a public life and that it would be better to keep on the offensive during the campaign than to allow himself to be put on the defensive.

CHARGE MISUSE OF SEN. LA FOLLETTE'S NAME ON BALLOT
Chicago—A legal fight against alleged misuse of La Follette's name in an attempt to "confuse voters" through filing of candidates on the ballots of Washington was announced by John E. Bullman, manager for La Follette in that state, in a telegram received here today.

The telegram was received by Representative John M. Nelson, national manager for La Follette, and said that it came after a telegram from Mr. Bullman reporting that a set of La Follette's name, filed by the recognized La Follette forces, had been accepted by the secretary of state of Washington.

Mr. Nelson said it had been erroneously reported that La Follette could not get on the Washington ballot. Mr. Bullman's telegram explained that a set of La Follette's name, filed by the recognized La Follette forces, had been accepted by the secretary of state of Washington.

The case, styled G. B. Schumacher vs. the defendant, commission company and Lincoln Highway Light company vs. the state railroad commission, is an attack on the authority of the state commission to regulate operations of mutual utility firms in Wisconsin.

Should the decision of Judge G. Ray Stevens in superior court be upheld in the high tribunal, Chairman Gottlieb declares that utility supervision of such associations would be nullified. No jurisdiction in this case, Judge Stevens in his decision held that the Lincoln Highway Light

Parades, Meetings, Mark Observance Over Wisconsin

CHICAGO—"Defense day" was ushered into the middle west by parades and meetings in which hundreds of thousands of national guardsmen participated and by patriotic rallies and massed meetings, where public speakers emphasized national preparedness. Half holidays were declared in a number of states and in hundreds of towns and cities. The major demonstrations, however, are scheduled for the evening in many localities.

Major General Harry H. Hale, commander of the sixth army corps area, United States army, in a message sent Friday to employees of all industries established within the area, which includes the states of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, said:

"General Hale's message and notes were sent to all industries and to all citizens. We want no more of this kind of message. We want a message that will show us the way to a better future. We want a message that will show us the way to a better future. We want a message that will show us the way to a better future."

"Congress, in 1920, passed the national defense act. It is the first law that thoroughly considered the needs of the nation for defense, and for the first time in history a plan was laid down and the war department authorized to prepare a national defense plan. Under the provisions of this law, the army of the United States is at present organized, trained, administered and supplied."

The general, after discussing the cooperation between fighting forces and industry, and the needs for supplies, said:

"Every executive, every foreman and principal man should know just what changes in factory layout will be necessary for the production of the war product, and the time required for these changes. He should know what factories are equipped with his industry, and the product and problems of co-operation should be solved in time of war."

Two sham battles were fought today, one at Vanlue, S. D., and one at Evansville, Ind. At Jeffersonville, Ind., $75,000 worth of army supplies were publicly exhibited and $100,000 worth of navy supplies were shown. A patriotic "pow-wow" was held in a patriotic "pow-wow."

BLAINE WILL NOT ACCEPT DEFY OF SEN. SEVERSON

(By Associated Press.)
Madison—Governor Blaine has refused to accept the defy of State Senator Truman J. Severson, of Iowa, in declining to appear before him for a hearing on charges of corruption in the state capital. Late yesterday, the executive announced he declined to accept Severson's resignation from the state free library board.

Following on removal of Severson from the board has been postponed by the governor until next Thursday. The action of the executive gives an interesting legal point which the courts may be called upon to settle. It is pointed out, Severson, after reading the governor's demand to resign and reveal information of alleged corruption in the capital, dispatched a letter to Mr. Blaine declaring he would not appear and underlining his resignation as a member of the library board. The legal point is whether Mr. Blaine can refuse the resignation and proceed to hold a hearing looking toward removal of Severson. Severson was called to appear in Madison yesterday. Subsequently, he made public a letter to the governor refusing to appear and announcing his resignation. What step will be taken next is not known, although it is generally believed Severson will not consent to appear before the executive. He has declared he would submit his information of alleged corruption to a disinterested legislative committee.

PRESIDENT HOPES TO AID WORLD IN REDUCING ARMIES

is deeply interested in all plans which will reduce the cost of armaments. The policy of the United States government, however, is based upon a belief that a move in the direction of an international conference with come with better chance of success when Europe has had an opportunity to digest the Dawes report and to put it into actual operation.

Mr. Coolidge has not forgotten that in the Washington conference for the limitation of armaments, an effort was made to bring up the subject of the size of armies and land military establishments. The speech of President Briand, in which he pointed out that France felt herself in constant jeopardy and could not at that time discuss land armaments still has its impression indelibly written in the minds of officials here. In other words, it was useless then to ask France to reduce her armaments, because the latter was constantly thinking of the situation in connection with such a move might be interpreted as such a national security as affected by the controversies growing out of the Treaty of Versailles. In such a mood and in such a temper, efforts to conduct an international conference were not regarded as likely to succeed. But when the United States government will assume the initiative in conducting an international conference must for the moment be left open. Certainly nothing will be done during the present political campaign, as such a move might be interpreted both abroad and in this country.

Europe's State of Mind
When the smoke of the campaign has cleared away, the president feels it will be time enough to examine whether the operation of the Dawes report has brought about a different state of mind in Europe with respect to armaments conference. Meanwhile, the League of Nations, with its Commission of Inquiry, will be studying the subject and much more will be known about the attitude of other countries than is known today. Thus far, the only commitment made from Geneva has been for the principle of further reduction of armaments and a method of arbitration, but there is always a practical difficulty when it comes to applying the principle in a definite treaty form. It would not be surprising if, after all, the attitude of the foreign governments would develop concretely what could be accomplished in an international conference, if it were held, so that the chance of succeeding would be known far in advance. While much was accomplished at the Washington conference, that was a surprise to the general public, there is no doubt that the main idea back of the Washington conference was

Myers Theater to Reopen Saturday

After considerable remodeling, the Myers theater will have its autumn opening Saturday afternoon and night as a vaudeville and motion picture house, managers of the United Theaters company announced Friday.

By revamping the theater and purchasing a motor generator, the management assures patrons of presenting pictures in the best possible light.

Four sets of vaudeville, a feature picture and two comedy pictures will be the bills for each week-end, with shows to be given Saturday afternoon and night and Sunday afternoon and night.

For the opening bill, "The Peck's Awakening" starring Ed Bennett, Mary Alden, Harrison Ford, Edward Connelly and John Schipolis, will be presented. It is the picture of William J. Locke's novel, "The Tale of Two Cities," which has to do with a mistaken identity causing much unhappiness.

Police Studio Fund—Dr. Fred Welch, city health officer, donated $5 Thursday to the police radio fund, bringing the total up to $55. Proceeds from benefit performances of the Beverly and Apollo theaters have as yet not been announced.

OCT. 2-ROCK CO. DAY AT NATIONAL

Dairyland to Be on Exhibit During Show Sept. 27 to Oct. 1 at Milwaukee.

Rock county is planning to do its share in assisting success for the National Dairy show to be held on the state fair grounds and the Milwaukee auditorium from Sept. 27 to October 1. The Rock county exhibit will be "Rock County Day" at the National when 2,000 or more citizens are expected to participate in the motor tour to the dairy classic. So other attractive features will be "Rock County Day" at the National, for in the past this great exhibit of Dairyland has been far away for many people from the Rock county to attend. With the exhibit less than 100 miles away and having a detailed show of the state's leading industry, from the cattle that have made the state prosperous to the varied products for which the state is famous, but dairy products, and the application of modern machinery and appliances in dairying, immense attendance is anticipated.

Attend as a County. The National Dairy show committee headed by J. A. Craig are planning to invade the state fair grounds on Oct. 2 with as many Rock county citizens as can be called to the color.

The livestock industry of the county will be represented by around 20 head, the best of the successful county show herd, stork, Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey and Brown Swisse will be shown from the county in the competition that ranks as being final in the dairy world. The National will see the finest of the land in dairy cattle, from the kings and queens of the blue blooded herd that are valued at thousands to the good old grade cow that feeds the local butter and fancy milk, but still proves to be a full filler. This will be the first National Dairy show where grade dairy cows will have a proper and fitting place.

The Dairy Industry. But cattle will not be all there is to be seen. The dairy industry will be depicted, from the wealth it produces, its importance in the health of the world and the methods of production of the finished dairy products. Exhibits will show that Wisconsin milk, like the stock yards here, is not to be wasted but every last drop utilized.

Having put Wisconsin in the

Her Great TEMPTATION

He told her that marriage was simply a form—that in the eyes of God they were man and wife as surely as though a dozen ceremonies had been spoken over them. And thousands of other girls who listen with their hearts aching of their minds—she believed him. Had she known the truth about life, what bitter anguish of soul she would have escaped! "His Great Temptation," which was also "her great temptation," is a powerful, heart-gripping narrative you won't soon forget. It is only one of the many remarkable features in October True Story, now on sale at all newsstands.

COMPLETE TEXT OF GEN. DAWES' SPEECH

Ladies and Gentlemen:
The attack made by Robert M. La Follette upon the constitution of the United States, behind which attack is massed a heterogeneous combination, the largest portion of which are the socialists, opposing the existing order of things and flying the red flag, is the culmination of the most dangerous era of demagoguery through which this country has ever passed.

For a long time, political leaders and political platforms have been dodging fundamental issues which, in his conscience, the American citizen knows are now at stake.

Faced with an abnormal condition in this country which exists because of lax government, resulting in part from widespread demagoguery in legislative bodies and among those who are charged with the enforcement of law, patriotic Americans have framed in their hearts and consciences the great issues upon which they propose to fight, and fight, it need be, in the halls of the politicians. Political parties are not primarily responsible for the great issues of this campaign. The average American citizen has been aroused, and he himself has defined the issues and the politicians are following.

Will Do Right

A people, like an individual, may for a time, tolerate wrongful practices, but of nothing are I more certain than that the American people have a conscience and a will to do right. This very day upon the constitution of the United States, led by La Follette and the socialists, has caused a great reaction in public sentiment in support of a more rigorous enforcement of law and order, and behind the constitutional foundations of our great representative government.

Revolts are against weakness and evasion in political leaders, for it is recognized that in this weakness and evasion in regard to fundamental issues, the chief danger is for the suppression of public officials in the enforcement of law when that enforcement operates against aggressive minorities.

In Mr. La Follette's platform, he advocates "abolition of the tyranny and usurpation of the courts, including the practice of quibbling legislation in conflict with the potent, social or economic theories of the judges."

In his platform, promulgated to the voters of Wisconsin, he says:

"We favor submitting to the people, for their considerate judgment, a constitutional amendment providing that Congress may, by enacting a statute make it effective over a judicial veto."

"His proposition is in effect that no

Rough Crossing on Highway 13 to Be Improved

Minor repairs have been made by the department of public works between the tracks of the Janesville Traction company at the intersection of North Washington street and Mineral Point avenue, eliminating temporarily at least the treacherous bump that has caused many a highway 13 motorist a severe jolt the past week.

In order to do away with this trouble for all time, the city hopes to have the streetcar company raise its tracks two inches at that point, as the unevenness between the rails may be paved with brick. The brick, a special type, has already been received by the traction company and is on the ground ready for installation when the tracks have been raised sufficiently.

At the time this section of Mineral Point avenue was paved in 1923, the asphalt was laid over the Washington street intersection except between the street car tracks. For four years this condition continued, but did not cause any inconvenience, as most of the traffic on Mineral Point avenue turned onto Washington street and thus did not cross the tracks. With Washington street closed for paving, however, and Mineral Point avenue paving extended as far as Pearl street, the need for a smoother crossing has become greater, and the department of public works intends to make every effort to see that it is obtained, according to Street Engineer Joseph Ludwig.

The streetcar company is putting finishing touches on its Washington street line, and it is hoped the paving contractor will be able to start work there shortly. The Birdall company was ready to pour concrete on this street last week, but the traction company had not completed its work.

AUTO SHIPMENTS BIG HELP TO RAILROADS

A total of $75,000 freight cars are required to bring the raw materials into the General Motors plants throughout the country and carry away the finished automobiles, according to a tabulation recently compiled.

Automobile traffic pays the highest freight rate per ton and the motor car industry is one of the railroads' most profitable sources of income. Compared with wheat the industry contributed 50 per cent more freight measured in dollars, it is estimated.

In 1922 the General Motors corporation sold $86,000 automobiles, of this number approximately 50,000 were driven away from the plants and the remainder shipped by the railroads.

inferior federal court be allowed to set aside an act of congress on the ground that it is unconstitutional, and that congress may set aside the verdicts of the supreme court itself, if it declares unconstitutional a law which congress may have passed. This proposition is to abrogate the principle of three-fold division of power—executive, legislative, and judicial—which is the basis of our constitution, and make the executive and judicial power subordinate to the legislative power.

The Supreme Court

It means that for our present form of government, we are to adopt another in which congress will predominate.

The success of such a doctrine, which would mean that the constitution would be stripped of authority, would be disastrous, and government would become the plaything of changing political parties, with demagogues in the saddle.

Its effects likewise would be disastrous to the rights of the states, to which are reserved such rights of government as are not specifically delegated to the federal government by the constitution. It would bring disaster to the happiness, prosperity and peace of the American people as a whole if, in place of our stable constitutional government, under which we have lived for one hundred and thirty-five years, we should establish a government by congress. This would be practically equivalent to a government of free democracy, which history has proved is most futile and disastrous for the proper protection of a people.

I want this evening to discuss particularly this proposition as it affects the inalienable rights of the individual, referred to in the "Declaration of Independence" for the protection of which rights the constitution of the United States was framed. Alexander Hamilton said, "The constitution itself is, in every rational sense and every useful purpose, a bill of rights."

Under the constitution, the courts are the guardians of the inalienable rights of the individual.

A bill of rights is a statement of

DAVES SPEAKS TO 9,000 BADGERS IN GREAT OUTPOURING

These inalienable rights of the individual in which his government must protect him and which any opposing power, within or without the government, must concede to him; such as the right to worship in the way his conscience may dictate; the right to own property; the right to peacefully pursue any proper avocation; the right to trial by jury; and such rights as protect him in the peaceful pursuit of happiness.

Bill of Rights

After ages of conflict, during which mankind has passed through martyrdom, all civilization recognizes an individual bill of rights. Indeed, the growth and establishment of bills of rights marks the growth and establishment of civilization.

The citizen formerly had to defend his individual bill of rights from the kings and princes and tyrants of the past. The Magna Charta was a bill of rights, and as Hamilton said, it was forced from King John by the barons, sword in hand. The "Declaration of Rights," enacted from Charles the First, and the "Declaration of Rights," drawn by the Lords and Commons in 1558 and enacted from the Prince of Orange, were bills of rights.

The bill of inalienable individual rights, the general recognition of which is the foundation of civilization, would be under the La Follette proposition, at the mercy of congress. It would challenge the professional purpose of every civilized government to protect from the realm of public conflict those individual rights the reasonableness and necessity of which have been demonstrated by warfare as old as the world, and to establish within the blood of untold millions, throughout the ages, has been shed.

Since the inalienable rights of the individual are those which are always threatened by mob action, and since, in this country, it is government under our constitution which is their only sure protection, I want to point out the difference between the rule of the people and the rule of the mob.

The fact that the ultimate judgment of the people is always sound, which always just is the rock upon which representative constitutional government stands. History and all experience shows that in the process of forming ultimate judgment, public opinion moves through a series of changing and temporary phases. What has destroyed free democracy in government in history is the fact that temporary phases of public opinion would determine governmental attitude. This temporary phase being wrong, governmental action was taken, and then the ultimate right judgment of the people was too late to correct the mistake.

Our Constitution

As some one has said, in the free democracy of Greece, Socrates was compelled to drink the hemlock one year, while a statue was raised to his memory the next year.

Under the constitutional government of the United States a system of checks and balances exists by which it is rendered certain that only the ultimate right and sound judgment of the people crystallizes into law.

That government whose policy is determined by the ultimate judgment of the people will permanently survive. Its policies are determined by the passing phases of popular opinion, as distinguished from ultimate opinion, will perish. The constitution of the United States establishes the rule of the people, as distinguished from the rule of the mob. The difference between the demagogue and the statesman is that the demagogue appeals to the mob and the statesman to the sound judgment of the people.

Between the people and between the mob there is all the difference between daylight and darkness. Let us consider this carefully for a short time.

What is going on throughout the United States and the world at this time as regards the relationship of governments to their people is best outlined in a series of books written by Gustav LeBon.

LeBon points out that when people are massed in crowds, a singular phenomenon occurs and a new entity seems to be formed. The crowd, as a crowd, has little intelligence—and Herbert Spencer was mistaken when he assumed that the intelligence of a crowd was the intelligence of the average individual composing it. LeBon points out that the genius or mental endowments of a crowd are the sum of the intelligence of the individuals composing it. In common, a vast chaos, he says, may separate in fact the maddest of men from the sanest, but in their elemental desires and feelings they are much alike. It is a fusion of the latter which composes the mind of a mob. The suggestion of people into crowds creates a living organism possessing a definite character and definite mental attitudes, and one that is in the same total lack of reasoning power. A mob reasons like a little child. It is moved and controlled by leaders who induce in violent action, and in reiteration which finally produces a contagion from which springs mob action.

Rule of the Mob

LeBon points out that a crowd, because of its very nature, is a unit of little intelligence, can be under the influence of strong leadership, be induced to commit deeds indistinguishable more than any individual by himself could be induced to do; and, on the other hand, can be led to acts of heroism and self-sacrifice to which again no individual member of it by himself could be persuaded.

He points out that that which interferes with the creation of mobs is the fact that the fundamental institutions of the land with which its life has been closely associated—the family and the church —and he maintains that as family ties loosen and the church tends to fall into disrepute, the obstacles to mob movement under unworthy leadership are greatly lessened.

It is significant in this connection that the representatives of mobs at the time of the French revolution decreed the abolition of all religion, just as in Soviet Russia today the church has been assailed and the young men are attacking religion and the church as one of the agencies of oppression.

As wealth and prosperity increase in a peaceful country, we know too well that the hold of the church and the hold of the family upon the individual is lessened; and, while in this great country of ours that hold persists among great masses of people as a safeguard, the American citizen feels that he is free to face with a danger to the liberties of our people from organized mobs of minorities under sinister leadership. We have seen in this country tremendous power wielded by certain leaders who understand mob psychology. We have seen the great influence of certain leaders who understand mob psychology and who, following the LeBon formula of violence, affirmation and indulgence in no appeal to their reason, lead masses of people to lawless action.

La Folletteism

The principle which LeBon sets forth are as old as humanity. The depths of suffering endured by the world during the ages as the result of mob leadership history only too well records.

La Folletteism in this campaign represents the quintessence of demagogism, animated by the vicious purpose of undermining the constitutional foundation of this republic.

In analyzing the speech of Mr. La Follette, one cannot but be impressed with the thought that beyond any other political leader in our country, he represents the qualities and exhibits the methods of mob leadership, so well described by LeBon as consisting in violent affirmation without appeal to reason, repetition and a trust that contagion will spread conviction.

What, you ask, La Follette Labor Day speech, what do we find? Violent and unsupported affirmation—references in a general way covering the supremacy of the so-called "freedom" of the constitution; "Wall Street"; the down-trodden condition of labor and of the farmer; the hopeless slavery of the American people crushed under the heel of monopolies. Then, on the other hand, violent affirmation as to the beneficial changes which will occur if the masses are put in charge of things, incidentally, creating La Follette, as their leader, into the high office of president of the United States. Intentionally, wages will go up, the price of farm products will go up, business will not be hurt, the millennium will have arrived.

Appeal to Passion

There is a significant vagueness in the discussion of the methods by which these results are to be attained, except the ever present intimation that if certain politicians are put into office, the means will be found.

In its strong appeal to the prejudices and passions of the people, the speech is unusual, but in no other way. Never in the history of the United States has the common sense of the average individual received a greater affront. La Follette's speech should raise the question in the minds of the American people—Does he consider us a race of fools? Slowly, and at an enormous cost, with the loss of millions of lives and untold bloodshed throughout the ages, has civilized society evolved.

As well as before, the establishment and steady progress of the individual bill of rights has, in all civilized countries, marked the progress of its civilization. The individual rights of the individual referred to in "The Declaration of Independence"—this individual bill of rights, upon which no other individual can encroach, upon which no government can encroach, and which is guarded by the courts under the constitution of the United States, but in the name of La Folletteism, we can see one steady purpose always in mind—the attack upon the constitution of the United States, the rights of the individual are recognized and protected.

Class Rights

We have heard much, the last few years, in congress and out, from the platform of class rights, of this class and that class, of this organization or the other organization, of this industry or that industry, of this section or that section, of this bloc or of that bloc.

Avoid the din of the conflict and inconsistent demands of these organizations for preferential legislative treatment we hear, at times, the plaintive cry of disturbed trimmers, and watch the confused and panic-stricken scurrying of politicians whose only definite minority marches on the scene of legislation. But the American people know that in attempting to please minority organizations, the defense of the constitution and the protection of individual rights, has been neglected.

No wonder, in the midst of such pointed cowardice, the enemies of constitutional government become defiant and the socialists fly the red flag. Unless patriotic citizens arouse themselves in the face of this mobilization of extreme radicalism by an individual, in a formidable attack upon the constitution of the United States, the foundations of the Republic may be torn away. It is thus, always, that governments are overthrown. The leader arises, preaching that destruction of government means the re-establishment of individual liberty, means all things good to all men, means that if they will place him and his associates in power, as the true champions of fairness and justice, that all will be well—that the faults of civilization do not have their foundation in the faults of the individual, but in the particular form of government which they happen to be attacking.

Bad Leadership

Sometimes, in countries where liberty does not live as it lives in this country, and where the yoke of despotism and wicked government has pressed heavily upon the necks of the people, the masses, believing in such leaders, or at least believing that no change could be for the worse, place them in power, as they did recently in Russia. What happened then is only what has happened in history. Then came the most terrible form of despotism, with massacre, with indescribable confusion, with confiscation, with assaults upon religion, with assaults upon the freedom of the press, with prostitution of business, with starvation and misery for the masses.

In their adversity, disillusioned with that knowledge which experience alone gives, the chastened Russian people, after years of misery, will again re-establish justice under law and order in a government not upheld by individual ambition, but upheld by and participated in by the people as in our own government, in which the inalienable rights of the individual are recognized and protected.

Who is there who cannot recognize the fundamental nature of this La Follette attack upon the constitution of the United States, having as one of its cardinal principles the transfer of the guardianship of the inalienable rights of the people from the courts and the constitution to congress, a principle, the recognition of which at one blow would destroy the fundamental and inalienable division of powers of the American government?

The courts of the United States are the guardians of the inalienable rights of individuals, including the freedom of the press, the rights of property and religious tolerance. They interpret laws passed by congress in their relation to those rights upheld by the constitution. What kind of a government would this be if congress had the right to pass a law taking property from one man and handing it to another, directing a man where he shall go to church, and undertaking to encroach upon the individual rights recognized by all civilization?

Confuse the Mind

It has become the fashion of politicians, in seeking to befuddle and confuse the mind of our people in their effort to get some petty office for themselves, to use such catch phrases as "reactionary." They would seek to have the term "reactionary" raise in the mind of the listener the picture of one who stands against honest government and in favor of some status quo from which he is supposed to derive an unfair individual benefit; such reactionaries all good citizens must condemn.

But the most dangerous reaction is the man attacking the constitution of the United States, under which our happy and progressive people live in peace and a prosperity greater than that of any other nation in the world. Such a man would open the way for a condition of things under which again, in poverty, confusion and misery, the people must evolve among themselves, constitutional instruments of stable and free government, under which the inalienable rights of the individual are protected from government itself. Let us not deceive ourselves. The doctrines of the socialists of the United States, headed in this campaign by Robert M. La Follette, are the reactionary doctrines. The heterogeneous collection of the representatives of organized minorities which endorsed the candidacy of Robert M. La Follette, could never have evolved a platform of their own, so diverse were their doctrines, and so impracticable and impossible their scattered viewpoints. It seems that there was but one man in the United States who could impose a platform upon them, and he only could do it because the cardinal principle of his platform was an attack upon the courts and the constitution of the United States. The fair sounding phrases of some parts of his platform would not have been sufficient to weld together behind him the forces against the existing order of things had not this attack upon the constitution irradiated them.

The Discontented

I recognize that there are in this country many men who are justly discontented, but who are patriotic at heart—who love their country, its constitution and flag. They may be opposed to certain things in the existing order, but they are not opposed to the existing order of things, and I warn them that they should not be deceived by the catch phrases of this master demagogue, endeavoring to amalgamate them with the socialists, flying the red flag, in an attack upon the constitution of their country. There is no half-way ground. It is useless for any party to intervene in the battle alignment of those who favor the constitution of the United States, and those who would destroy its essential parts. They are in no man's land. They not only will not gain any recruits from either battle line, but they will be fortunate if by night they escape with their political existence.

In one battle line is Calvin Coolidge, the leader, standing on the platform of the constitution of progressive conservatism and under the American flag in the other is La Follette with a mobilization of the forces of extreme radicalism of which the largest part, the socialists, fly the red flag.

To Wisconsin

Citizen of Wisconsin, I have outlined the greatest issue in this campaign. You are to vote on it next November. Let this decision be made by a full vote of the registered voters, not by the fractional vote which, for the last four years, has been cast in Wisconsin. What issue was ever more important? Let us find out, as a people, where we stand—on the rock of law and order and the constitution, with the Stars and Stripes, or on the sinking sands of the socialists, with the red flag.

For myself, I cannot doubt that the great state of Wisconsin will stand behind our flag, and that the first thought in the hearts of a great majority of its citizens in May Country "The of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty."

Too Big a Fistful to Pull Out

POPULAR animal stories tell amusingly of the monkey clutching a handful of nuts in a gourd or narrow vase—straining for hours with a fistful too big to pull out and too tempting to let go.

We don't have to go as far back as the monkey to find the like. Every day we see the spectacle of motorists persistently hugging the penny temptation of cheapened motor fuels, with never a chance of extracting the value from their supposed economy.

In a certain type of explosive engine, suitable for industrial use but not for automobiles, it is true that heavy, kerosenish fuels will give up more power than more gaseous or volatile ones.

Like the nuts, the power units are there, all right, but the type of motor practical for cars can't bring them out any more than the monkey's fist will pull through the narrow neck.

Wadhams True Gasoline

has not as many power units as if it were a heavier fuel of another nature—but it has better power units from an automobile standpoint because they all come out with every explosion!

That is why its refining range is limited to only the part of the petroleum that can be used for power by your motor. It is the clear quill—truly and completely explosive—free from the dangerous padding of carbon-laden and kerosenish material that won't come out but stays behind to work havoc with your motor.

PEACH SEASON IS APPROACHING END

Apples and Other Fruits Abundant—Scarcity of Tomatoes Seen.

Peaches, which for the past two or three weeks have predominated in the fruit markets, are beginning to disappear and the advance in prices which started last week has continued, bringing bushels up to $2.25 at the present time. The only variety to be had are the "Colorado," but at 60 cents a bushel, quality, which started last week at 40 cents, and others are 20 cents for a small basket. Doses are $1.75.

Compared to this week a year ago, the prices are about 15 cents higher. At that time, however, some sold as low as $2.25 a bushel, but most of the good fruit was as high as $3.00. The quality was an unusually heavy crop, $2.25 to $2.50 purchased the best.

No Home-Grown Grapes. A few Concord grapes appeared in local stores last week, but have dropped out for a few days. More are expected soon. The ordinary home-grown blue grapes, which last year at this time were selling for 10 cents, are entirely absent.

Remarkably large supplies of other grapes, at prices lower than usual, considering the small green kind, and the malvates, are 10 cents a bushel, while to-day are 20 cents. Even the cheapest a year ago were 15 cents a bushel.

Pending the peach season for tomatoes, small fruits are being canned in large quantities, growers say. Michigan plums are 10 cents a bushel, or two for 15 cents; fancy crab apples, suitable for pickling or jelly-making, are 5 cents a bushel.

Fancy table fruits include blue plums at 10 cents a dozen, cheaper than they have been for several years. Red plums are 20 cents a dozen, and new apples, two pounds for 25 cents. A year ago fancy apples were only 5 cents a bushel.

Compared to this year, however, and many varieties are as cheap as usual. Ordinary cooking varieties are five pounds for 25 cents.

Compared to last year, both oranges and lemons are low in price. Lemons in particular have only had one slight advance during the entire season, and at 15 cents a bushel, are 10 cents lower than last year, and 50 to 70 cents in 1922. Best oranges are now at 35 cents, 5 to 10 cents lower than a year ago.

Many Vegetables Offered. Vegetables this week-end include wax beans and green beans at 20 cents a bushel; eggplants, green peppers, 5 cents a bushel; 1 cent per pound against 4 cents per pound for the week corresponding to this time in 1923; and 10 cents per bushel for the week corresponding to this time in 1922.

On account of the cold weather and lack of sunshine, tomatoes are very scarce, and there have been but few brought into town. Traditionally no eating has been done this year, and merchants are fearing a frost, which would ruin the crop. A few warm days would bring bushels onto the market.

Tomatoes Are Scarce. Watermelons are fast disappearing, and another week at the most will finish their season. Merchants predict. This week they are as low as any time so far, however, at 35 cents each, but could be secured last year at this time for 10 cents, and 15 cents, while the extra large ones were up to 25 cents. Cantaloupes are two for 25 cents, and Osage melons, 15 cents each.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR BIG PLAY DAY

Every Township to Be Represented in Community Event Here Sept. 19.

Final plans for the Rock county play day, Sept. 19, were worked out at a meeting Thursday night in the Y. M. C. A. here. Eleven townships were represented. As this was the last general meeting before the county affair, arrangements for the 1925 play days were considered. The consensus of opinion was that the county play day should follow the township series early in June and a motion was carried to continue the present county organization until the 1925 organization is formed.

The most important action taken with reference to the 1924 play day was adoption of the day's schedule of events as submitted by Lloyd Porter, chairmen of games. The schedule for children's events will be as follows: 9-11 a. m.—Playground ball tournament; 11-12—Boys' horseshoe tournament; 1-3 p. m.—Volleyball tournament; 3-5 p. m.—Jumping relay; 5-7 p. m.—4-4-100 yard and 200 yard relays; 4-4-100 yard and 200 yard relays.

The schedule for adult events will be as follows: 9-10:30 a. m.—Men's volleyball tournament; 10:30-12—Men's horseshoe tournament; 1-3 p. m.—Men's basketball; 3-5 p. m.—Women's basketball; 5-7 p. m.—4-4-100 yard and 200 yard relays.

The men's basketball game was set for 2 p. m. Tuesday has won the championship for the southern end of the country and will play a team from the southern end of the country and will play a team from the northern end, in which the championship is to be determined by games played off between now and Sept. 19.

Each township is also expected to send a representative to the fair grounds at 10 a. m. Thursday to help lay out the grounds for the different events. J. C. Wilson, Harmony, and C. B. Austin, Johnston, are to direct the work of the grounds committee.

Port Skinner, Turin, is chairman of the stand committee. Each township is to furnish one person to assist in the stand on Friday. Mrs. L. H. Hansen, Beloit, and Hugh Hemmingsway, Janesville, were named to serve with Mr. Skinner as the buying committee.

On recommendation of the dinner committee named at a previous meeting, it was voted to have a basket dinner, each family bringing its own lunch and making its own arrangements for eating. This was thought more feasible than to attempt to assemble the food to be served on the grounds.

Edward Van Gelder presented his resignation as assistant chairman on account of leaving the county Sept. 15. He was given a vote of thanks for services rendered and Howard Baldwin, Beloit, was elected to fill the vacancy. The protest committee was enlarged to include the entire executive committee. A. C. Nighlin, Janesville, was named chairman of the men's horseshoe tournament.

Schools to Observe.—While the men's tug-of-war is not on the regular schedule, Turin challenged the rest of the county and Porter accepted to challenge at the meeting Thursday night.

It is expected that all one-room and second class state graded schools in the county will dismiss and attend the county play day, whether or not the district is eligible to compete in any of the events. The adult picnic is an open affair and their parents ever held in the county.

feeling that exists this year in Wisconsin. Cheers for Senator La Follette were heard frequently before the meeting got under way, and these cheers grew somewhat in volume as Senator La Follette, in his opening remarks, mentioned the name of the Wisconsin senator.

The atmosphere seemed to be charged with the feeling existing in the state, several of those in the audience cast some what apprehensive glances over the audience and those in the audience in many cases sat forward in their seats, all feeling that there might be an open demonstration of these diverse sentiments.

Sen. Dawes proceeded with his analysis of the attitude of the La Follette-Wheeler ticket toward constitutional questions, particularly the independent platform's declaration of congressional veto of supreme court decisions. Those in charge of the meeting said they noticed a lessening of the strain. There were few interruptions from unsympathetic members of the audience thereafter, when those sitting in sections near the back of the hall, got up and walked noisily out.

The republican organization officials estimated the number who did this at two or three hundred and pointed out that their places were taken immediately by the crowd waiting to enter from among the crowd waiting outside.

Dawes on La Follette. Mr. Dawes devoted his entire address to a discussion of the La Follette movement, which he declared represented "the quietest sense of demagoguism, animated by the vicious purpose of undermining the constitutional foundation of this republic."

He attacked Senator La Follette as "the master demagogue" described the senator's latter day address as an affront to the common sense of the average individual, and declared the success of the La Follette doctrine of congressional veto of supreme court decisions "would strip of authority, would be disastrous and government would become the plaything of changing political parties with demagogues in the saddle."

MILTON

Milton.—Dr. E. E. Campbell returned Tuesday from Mercy hospital, Janesville, where he has been receiving treatment for several weeks. He is much improved in health.—Paul Holmes of the Wisconsin News, Milwaukee, is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. ## CHANGE MONEY TO MANHOOD, IS PLEA

Development of Immortal Values in Youth Urged By Dr. Bovard.

Development of a fine type of Christian manhood and womanhood will be obtained through the various educational agencies working as the part of a whole instead of as individual units, Dr. W. S. Bovard, Chicago, secretary of the Board of Education, told the Wisconsin conference at the Thursday evening session. The meeting was devoted to the anniversary of the Board of Education and was presided over by Dr. Samuel Paulz, president of Lawrence college, Appleton, the Methodist institution of Wisconsin.

Dr. Bovard proved an eloquent and dynamic speaker, delivering an address that held the attention of his large audience that overflowed into the Sunday school room. Dr. Charles E. Guthrie, Chicago, secretary of the Epworth league, was unable to be present. Physicians having ordered him to take a rest for several weeks.

Agencies Coordinated. If a philosophy is to be found that justifies the work of the general conference in the greater merger that placed the activities of several boards with that of education, it is in the needs and development of human life, Dr. Bovard said. All of the agencies of the church that seek to serve this life in terms of education were coordinated at the session.

This was brought about through an understanding that the periods of human development, the child, the youth and adult are indivisible. Man can't be sliced up into compartments and parcelled out to various agencies for improvement. He declared that it is appreciated that the soul, the mind and the physical all go to make up the human person.

Atheism Unnecessary. It is no longer an index to a man's spiritual life that he neglect his body and become thin and cadaverous and that he look as though he hadn't had a square meal in many a day, Dr. Bovard said while on the subject of the three forces making up the human.

Development of Christian manhood and womanhood should start in childhood, for the kind of youth you have depends upon the childhood and the parenthood upon the youth that preceded it. There are no breaks in the link, Dr. Bovard pointed out, from youth to parenthood.

He pointed out that it was because of this that colleges were interested in the work of the other educational forces of the church, aside from the work on the campus, and that other educational institutions in education should interest themselves to a marked degree.

Campus Great Adventure. Many of the troubles colleges grapple with on the campus are because something was lacking in the fundamental and preparatory work, Dr. Bovard declared. He urged churches and educational forces within the church take more of an interest in those going to college. He said they would give them much attention were they to be garbed in khaki and sent over the waters. Then there would be much time spent in emphasizing the possibilities of the great adventure.

"The adventure of four years on a college campus in the educational process which the young men and women undergo is fraught with many changes and evolutions in character," the speaker said. "I would pay the church boards to cultivate those who are going to college with the same earnestness like they were going to camp and the thereby will be able to contribute more to college success than they have in years."

Crucial Civic Activity. Dr. Bovard praised the growing tendency upon the part of those engaged in work in Methodist institutions to realize their civic responsibilities and to get away from "educational atheism," which had placed them where they felt they could not help make the town free from Satanic influences.

"Families can send their children to the institutions knowing the cleaning up power gathered together in a college organization."

His advice to the American businessman is that before the undertaker gets him to take a step to change his money into manhood, into character, his property into personal power, before he passes on into a land where land and money has no value. This was in accord with what Dr. Bovard termed the transmission of values.
